I liked and appreciate your story. Being a preacher's wife; I would like to hear more about the details of the congregational problems. What part did you play in the disagreements? What was misinterpreted? What did the parishioners say when they complained. What did you do immediately following the hearing of the problems? When did our Lord move and what did He do? Mostly your story flowed as this happened and then that happened with very little detail. Even the devil sends people to church to cause conflicts as in the tares and the wheat; so these things happen. Father God works these situations out if you be still and know He is God... Working in the Spirit of the Lord while you tame your tongue/flesh is very hard when the winds of turbulence swirls about. It is good to witness the path when it is traveled with "Faith"!0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. God's grace shines through herBy Sue (Kreutzfeld) CashenI just downloaded this book and read some of the first pages. I am anxious to continue reading. My husband I have known Sally and Dave for many years. They have opened up their home and pulpit to us when we were first ministering. This family is one of the sweetest families I know. Sally has been through a lot with losing her first husband, but God has kept her through all this and she still has a sweet smile on her face. May God bless her and her book. She inspires me to write, too. I do love to write. Maybe you will see my book here someday. :)God bless!!0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. What a lufe!!By CustomerWow, sally, I enjoyed reading this very much, read it all in one sitting. You are defiinatly blessed. I am so proud to have known you in high school. This has certainly opened my eyes, as just like you, my mom and dad were not church goers when I was growingup, even though my grandfather was a Baptist minister in southern ohio. I'm really going to take your advice, say that prayer and read the bible, I've mourned for over 5 yrs and I know I must move on. Thank you, always your friend. Lana Marshall Frey andrews..

In this book you will find the ups and downs of life and being in the ministry. Being on the front lines as a pastor's wife brought me victories and discouragement with the people in our congregations. We experienced the joys of leading people to Christ, but also experienced hard times. This is MY story of life, love, loss and never giving up!
